

From Southland to Surgery: A Journey around Values

Paperback, 154 pages ISBN 978-0-473-54340-2

I have been privileged to know John as a teacher, colleague, mentor and friend over nearly 50 years. I can identify with his writing about nurturing medical students and young colleagues. John had infinite patience with, and sound advice for, younger colleagues whose enthusiasm may have led them into dangerous waters. In this book John relates key experiences from childhood, schooling, medical school and surgical training in Edinburgh that moulded the surgeon/physician/teacher who helped and influenced so many patients with kidney disease, medical students and young doctors. The University of Otago recognised his teaching skills by awarding him a Gold Medal for Teaching Excellence in 2015. – Kelvin Lynn
